

PUBLIC LEDGER.

Office, No. 14 Madison Street.
LARGEST CITY CIRCULATION.
IN STRAWBERRY TIME.
The garden gate, as we pass through,
Sings slowly backward, then ahead again;
Over our heads the sky's deep blue, Faint above the last night's pale,
And the milk-white clouds through the air And over the landscape pool shadows trail.
Through the orchard sunlight and shadow we Hurry and I, that sweet June day, When the odor of clover-bloom was blent With the fragrant scent of the new-mown hay,
And the voice of the bobolink rounded clear, As he called to his mate from the meadow near.
Half joy, half woe, the light wind played,
On the leaves and with the grass;
That over her shoulders I lay,
And kissed the cheek of this sweet girl,
As we munched on the last night's pale,
To the meadow where grew the strawberries red.
Together we stooped in the tall green grass,
That day when the June sun shone fair;
But my thoughts were all of the village lane,
From under her starry hair's golden rim, She darted a look of quick surprise; For you might have counted the berries that lay.
In the basket I carried that sweet June day, "Heddy," I said, as I rose—and she Withdrew her gaze in a gentle alarm—"One has to be enough for you and me."
And lifting her, laden, across my arm, We sauntered back by the path that led From the meadow where grew the strawberries red.
But long ere we reached the garden gate,
She and I had parted;
From her own sweet life I had learned my fate, Oh, happy the hour, and happy the day!
And happy my heart in its new-found bliss, As I walked such close with a lover's kiss.
Ah! many a year then has gone by,
But whenever the month of June draws near,
And the clouds grow whiter that cross the sky,
Or whenever the bobolink's voice is heard,
As the summer approaches her golden prime, Comes the thought to me of that strawberry time.

WHITE SLAVERY NORTH.

Sewing Girls and Women of New York.
A writer in the Revolution gives the following picture of the life led by sewing girls and women in New York.
It is unfortunately too true:
Of the thirty thousand women now out of employment in this wilderness of a city, twenty thousand are said to be sewing girls. There are, first, the shop girls who sit in long rows up and down the length of dreary workshops, or piled in promiscuously in less pretentious establishments. Then there are the dressmakers, the cloakmakers, tailoresses, seamstresses, and makers in of shop work. A picture of one of the vast establishments, where shop girls work, will do for all the rest. Large, well lighted show rooms, attentive salesmen, watchful floor walkers, spry little cash boys—all these will the eager buyers find in the lower rooms. Down stairs to see the evening dresses, where brilliant gas jets flame out to show the effects; up stairs to see the bargains in cloaks and shawls; wherever they go the same genial light and soft radiance is thrown.
The work room is a very different place to the show rooms, however. On the third floor are the first work rooms. They are large and well lighted, though but poorly ventilated. The impression upon one's mind is that a breath of fresh air has not entered that close atmosphere for a long time, and yet the windows are thrown open every night at sweeping hour. But one must remember, when sixty human beings, some of them with diseased lungs and horrid breath, work in these rooms ten hours per day, that it is almost impossible to keep these in a proper condition. These are the lace workers and muslin finishers. They prepare those delicate articles of lingerie which so wins one's heart from the window or case where they hang. Infants' robes, babies' blankets, are thoroughly prepared here. The girls look tired, even at an hour before noon. They bend over shockingly, and nearly all of them have sore eyes and sore hearts, poor things. Six dollars a week is the average price made here. Some make nine.
The fourth floor, one immense room, running over the whole building from back to front, and from side to side, is occupied by cloak makers. There are four long tables down the center of the room, and smaller ones placed a little to the side.
Here, during the brisk season, ninety-five girls work. Now the number cannot be more than twenty.
The women working here seemed more cheerful than those on the lower floor; but they, too, are overtaxed and allow themselves to die by inches just because they can't any longer make any money. Their lives are making a mad dash for the door. They are more than the muslin workers. Some of them can make ten dollars a week, but these are old hands at the business. On the fifth floor is a smaller work room than either of the others. It is devoted to making up plain underwear for ladies and children. There are about twenty-five or thirty employed here, pale, worn and sickly, but strange enough, more contented with their lot than those of either of the floors below.
I asked one old lady, whose age would surely entitle her to rest, how she liked to work here. She replied: "I thank God that I can take care of myself in my old age!" She is seventy-two years of age, and earns three dollars a week.
God help her. I could not help wondering how in the world she manages to reach the fifth story with her poor rheumatic limbs and feeble strength. As if divining my thoughts, she said: "To be sure, it's a good way up, and I have to come very slowly; but after I once get here there is rest for me until night." A little creature of thirteen, who looked no more than nine, was basting bums in a corner. She was only learning, she said, and had been there two weeks, but in a fortnight more she would be paid for working.
Upon asking her "how much?" she answered with a proud inflection of voice, "five dollars a month." The faces of the employees throughout this establishment generally were a shocked, startled expression, as if they were forever on the rack. A great majority seemed to be suffering with lung and throat disease.
Poorly paid, ill clothed and fed, they go from one year to another.

Less by Portland Fire, July 4th.

THE total amount covered by the Sina Police on property destroyed or damaged $200,000, on which savings will be about five percent. Our total loss will not vary much from $200,000, and was promptly adjusted and paid. This sum is five per cent. upon the Company's assets, a figure but slightly exceeding our Government and State taxes paid last year, or a proportion equal to a $5,000 loss for a company of $100,000 assets.
The necessity for insurance and the value of wealthy, strong corporations is forcibly illustrated by this fire. Several weak insurance companies are destroyed. Portland has a population of 35,000—was handsomely built, mostly fine brick or stone structures—protected and screened with upward of 3,000 shade trees—bounded on three sides by water—indeed, literally, almost rising from the ocean—and with a steam fire department—yet it has $10, 000,000 of property consumed in a few hours—upon a holiday when its people are least occupied from the very insignificant cause of a contemptible firecracker.
Remember the trifling origin of fires that sweep away in a few hours the earnings of years. Consider your interest and give the Sina Agents a call if you need proper insurance security. Pay a fair rate of premium for a good and genuine article, and with these lights and experiences before you, procure your insurance with shrewd judgment.

Not to be Forgotten

EUREKA LIFE-BLOOD ELIXIR

is the greatest known remedy to the cure of the blood and antidote to venereal and malarial diseases.

The Greatest Discovery Known to the World in Medicine.

HAS AT LAST MADE ITS WAY IN this country, after having been in use for the last twenty years, and especially in China. The celebrated chemist and Dr. H. H. Russell, of Philadelphia, has been the first to introduce this great remedy into this country, and has established a few wholesale agencies for the purpose of supplying all districts throughout the towns and cities of our country. This Blood Medicine has performed cures that are astonishing, where every other remedy known in Materia Medica has most signally failed.

IT IS NO HUMBUG

—OR—
QUACK NOSTRUM!

but is a preparation which has been brought out after many long years of the deepest research, aided by the greatest chemical talent and skill that could be brought to bear in its production; we therefore place it wholly UPON ITS OWN MERITS, asking the invalid or afflicted to

TRY IT ONCE

to be fully convinced, as its effects are instan-taneous from the first dose taken, entering a pace into the blood and penetrating every portion of the whole body, driving out every impurity from the whole system, and creating instead PURE LIFE-BLOOD; hence its name.
